

CASE REPORT

ANAPLASTIC LARGE CELL LYMPHOMA MANIFESTING AS CUTANEOUS GRANULOMATOUS LESION – A DIAGNOSTIC CHALLENGE

Sarath Balaji B
*Suganya Subramani
@Karthik Kumar
Balamurugan S
§Chandramouleeswari K
§§Umadevi S
!Kalpana Sivasambo

Abstract: Anaplastic large cell lymphoma is a rare form of mature T-cell non-Hodgkin lymphoma. It typically presents at an advanced stage with extra-nodal involvement. Granulomatous inflammation on biopsy can be misleading often suggesting chronic infections and inflammatory conditions. We report a case of pediatric anaplastic large cell lymphoma presenting as recurrent cutaneous abscesses with granulomatous inflammation.

Keywords: Recurrent abscess, Cutaneous lymphoma, Granuloma.

References

1. Lowe EJ, Woessmann W. Anaplastic large cell lymphoma in children and adolescents. British Journal of Haematology. 2025 Aug; 207(2):336-49.
2. Mendiratta V, Gandhi N, Rana S, Shukla S. Isolated cutaneous involvement in a child with nodal anaplastic large cell lymphoma. Indian Journal of Dermatology, Venereology and Leprology. 2016 Jan 1; 82:53-6.
3. Oschlies I, Lisfeld J, Lamant L, Nakazawa A, d'Amore ES, Hansson U, et al. ALK-positive anaplastic large cell lymphoma limited to the skin: clinical, histopathological and molecular analysis of 6 pediatric cases. A report from the ALCL99 study. haematologica. 2013 Jan; 98(1):50-6.
4. Knauss HM, Glosser LD, Beran A, Sidwell AN, Abdulsattar W, Skeel RT, et al. Anaplastic large cell lymphoma presenting as ulcerative facial mass: a case report. Case Reports in Oncology. 2022 May 2; 15(1): 199-206.
5. Chao-Lo MP, King-Ismael D, Lopez RA. Primary cutaneous CD30+ anaplastic large cell lymphoma: report of a rare case. Journal of Dermatological Case Reports. 2008 Oct 11; 2(3):31-4.

* Associate Professor,
Department of Pediatric Pulmonology

 Fellow,
FNB Hemato-oncology

@ Assistant Professor,
Department of Pediatric Hemato-oncology
email : drkarthikkumar92@gmail.com

§ Professor of Pathology

§§ Assistant Professor of Pathology

! Professor of Pediatrics,
Institute of Child Health and Hospital for Children,
Madras Medical College, Chennai.